
CONTENTS

Editorial

- 3-14 East-West flows: Cinematic currents between China and the United States
TIM GRUENEWALD AND
GEORGE CHUN HAN WANG
王君瀚

Articles

- 15-35 Hong Kong in the Hollywood imaginary: Deterritorialization and reterritorialization in John Woo's A Better Tomorrow and The Killer
WIMAL DISSANAYAKE
- 37-61 King Hu in Hollywood: Making The Battle of Ono
GEORGE CHUN HAN WANG 王君瀚
- 63-79 Wang was missing: Rediscovering Wayne Wang's independence
TIM GRUENEWALD
- 81-97 Entering the cinema of attractions' Matrix: Yuen Wo-Ping's merging of Hollywood spectacle with kungfu choreography
IAN PETTIGREW
- 99-116 Modernizing primordialism: Deterritorializing Chineseness and reterritorializing the sinophone in Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon
JASON G. COE
- 117-131 A taste of home: Emotional transnationalism and China Lion Film Distribution in the United States
VALERIE SOE
- 133-162 Leukocentric Hollywood: Whitewashing, Alohagate and the dawn of Hollywood with Chinese characteristics
AARON HAN JOON MAGNAN-PARK 朴漢峻

Book Review

- 163-165 King Hu In His Own Words, Roger Garcia and George Chun Han Wang (eds) (2013)
GINA MARCHETTI