
CONTENTS

Editorial

- 117–130 Introduction: Hong Kong independent documentaries and their visibility
MIKE INGHAM AND KENNY K. K. NG

Articles

- 131–146 Authoritarianism, the struggle for current affairs public service broadcasting and Radio Television Hong Kong
IAN AITKEN
- 147–160 Too much reality? Reflections on the educational-observational film world of Tammy Cheung and Augustine Lam
MIKE INGHAM
- 161–175 The ‘We’ in two pairs of documentaries about protests by The 70’s Biweekly syndicate and the 2019 Hong Kong Documentary Workers
JESSICA YEUNG
- 177–189 Hong Kong independent political documentary under the regulating dispositif: Inside the Red Brick Wall and beyond
ENOCH YEE-LOK TAM

- 191–207 The making of the citizen-spectator in postmillennial Hong Kong: Authorial and spectatorial engagement with independent documentary films
HELENA WU

- 209–224 Going to the people: Community screening, documentary and the plebeian public sphere in Hong Kong
KIT FUNG HENRY CHIU

- 225–240 Lost in the Fumes: Affective resistance in relation to the 2019 Hong Kong Anti-Extradition Law Amendment Bill Movement
LUCAS L. H. WONG

- 241–256 Remembering the losers: The hopeful politics of memory in Raise the Umbrellas 撐傘
JASON G. COE

Interview

- 257–275 Documentary and democracy: An interview with Evans Chan
GINA MARCHETTI

- 279 Index